

Be a Voice for General Practice in Southern NSW

EXPRESSION OF INTEREST

COORDINARE's Southern NSW Clinical Council

COORDINARE - South Eastern NSW Primary Health Network (PHN) is seeking expressions of interest from General Practitioners to fill two vacancies on our Southern NSW Clinical Council.

Why Join the Southern NSW Clinical Council?

As a trusted GP in your community, you are uniquely positioned to influence how health care is delivered across Southern NSW. This is your opportunity to:

- Represent your peers and ensure their insights and experiences shape regional health planning;
- Act as a conduit between your local GP network and COORDINARE, bringing forward issues, and innovative ideas;
- Collaborate with like-minded clinicians to improve access, equity, and outcomes in primary care.

Your voice will help ensure that decisions made at the system level reflect the realities of general practice on the ground.

About COORDINARE - South Eastern NSW PHN

COORDINARE is one of 31 PHNs across Australia and one of 10 in NSW. Our region spans from Helensburgh to the Victorian border and inland to Cooma, Queanbeyan, Yass, and Goulburn. We are committed to:

- Improving health equity across diverse communities;
- Strengthening primary care through collaboration and integration;
- Activating communities to take charge of their health and wellbeing.

The role of the Clinical Council

The Clinical Council includes a range of health professionals who work in primary care who provide strategic clinical advice to COORDINARE's Board Members to:

- Offer insights into local health system challenges and opportunities;
- Help shape commissioning decisions and service design;
- Bring forward issues raised by their GP colleagues to inform regional priorities;
- Provide feedback on proposals, submissions, and emerging initiatives.

This is a collaborative space where your clinical expertise and community knowledge can directly influence health system improvement.

Who we are looking for

We are seeking applications from General Practitioners who:

- Are actively practising in Southern NSW;
- Have a strong understanding of the primary care environment and local health needs;
- Are committed to improving health outcomes and reducing service gaps;
- Are well-connected with their GP peers and willing to represent their perspectives.

We strongly encourage applications from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander GPs.

Commitment and support

- Initial three-year term;
- Quarterly meetings (2 hours each), held online or in person;
- Members are reimbursed for their time and contributions
